OUR HISTORY

About 70 percent of family-owned businesses never make it into the hands of the second generation. Taylor Electric Company is now led by fourth generation Taylor family members. From installing doorbells in 1922 to today – providing electrical maintenance contracts for the home of the Chicago White Sox to work at O'Hare Airport and Northerly Island – we have evolved and thrived. We are also the first electrical contracting company in Chicago to have a female CEO, carrying on the family's reputation for commitment, longevity, and value.

Our leadership team, here for you.

Founded in 1922

Our 100+ years of experience means we've seen it all – and can do it all.

Family culture

Our employees stay with us for years, leading to better customer relationships and outcomes.

Community service

We've made a commitment to community service. We know that we're better when we help make others better too.

A name you can trust.

Our founder, Sam Taylor, believed that a man's word was his bond, a belief we've carried forward into everything we do.
